AMERICAN

generously supported by BAAF Adoption & Fostering

As part of the 2004 London Comedy Festival, Soho Theatre presents a unique blend of stand-up and theatre from internationally acclaimed comedian Alison Larkin.

Alison Larkin thought she was an English rose... only to discover that she was actually an American Redneck! Adopted at birth and raised in England, she discovered her roots in Bald Mountain, Tennessee.

Combining stand-up comedy and theatre, she delivers a poignant, witty and enthralling tale based on the true story of her return to America to meet her birth parents and takes an honest look at the divide between 'them and us'.

Expect large laughs – with fries.

'She is brilliant... deeply comic.' The Times

'Alison Larkin, a dazzling, new, bi-hemispheric comedian.'
The LA Times

'Infectious enthusiasm, razor-sharp wit... poignant and effortlessly funny.' The List
